

Dear LTLF,

Excellent stuff – keep up the good work. Helps to brighten up these dark times at the ‘Theatre of Sorrows’, as Kinnear put it.

At the moment the only other thing that cheers us up are our old friends Stella and (Remy) Martin.

Yours,
The Family Pew

Dear LTLF,

I’m an exiled Red living up in Liverpool. When buying some snacks recently in a local supermarket, I couldn’t help noticing some new sweets called ‘Super Reds’!

I was particularly amused by the slogan on the packaging, “The magic’s in the middle” – could this be a reference to the hub of creativity that is Forest’s midfield?!

Let’s just hope that Alan Rogers doesn’t discover ‘Super Reds’ next time he waddles home to visit his rellies in Scouseland...

Mark Thomas, Liverpool

Dear LTLF,

From the ‘Stars of the Stars’ feature in your last issue, Russell Hoult’s entry: “You should wear a hat ... to avoid losing sight of what you are trying to grasp.”

If only he’d taken your advice during the Yeovil game!

Jude McLean

Dear LTLF,

I’ve been pleased in recent months to hear about the progress of the Brian Clough Statue Fund. With money pouring in, it seems that a lasting tribute to Cloughie will be erected in Nottingham sooner rather than later – and I’m sure I’m not alone in saying that it’s the least he deserves!

That said, it appears there’s already an existing memorial to the great man, as, when walking to the ground from Lady Bay Bridge recently, I spotted this canoe! Perhaps this was Cloughie’s favoured means of getting across the Trent on those days when he couldn’t be arsed to walk on water?

Dave Foreman, Nottingham

A Christmas Message

Well folks, it really has been an ‘annus horribilis’ for Forest fans, what with relegation, utter humiliation and all... but I’m sure you don’t want silly old me reminding you how bad things are! I would offer to help with some of my vast fortunes, but it’s not been cheap sending Harry to the rehab clinic – err, I mean, army – so cash’s a bit tight right now, you know how it is. I guess the only thing you can do is continue to support your club with the same loyalty and dedication that I have come to depend on from my subjects. Oh, and for the record, there’s nowt wrong with gingers... unless they happen to be illicitly fathered by rats like James Hewitt!

Subscribe to the remaining three issues of LTLF for the 2005/06 season by sending a cheque for £4 payable to ‘LTLF’ along with the form below to LTLF Subscriptions, 125 Shelford Road, Radcliffe-on-Trent, Nottingham, NG12 1AZ. For more subscription options, visit www.ltlf.co.uk/subscribe.

Dear LTLF,

This madness has gone on long enough! I must subscribe to LTLF right away! Please find enclosed a cheque for £4 and send the next three issues by first class post to...

Four horizontal lines for an address, followed by a dashed border and a pair of scissors icon on the right side.

Yours,

To contact LTLF, please email alex@ltlf.co.uk, phone 07734349167 or write to LTLF, 125 Shelford Road, Radcliffe-on-Trent, Nottingham, NG12 1AZ. All feedback is very welcome and we look forward to reading your views on the latest Forest news.

Next issue: January 27